This spring, 2010, a special education graduate course will be offered that may be useful to many students as an elective or a graduate course in special education. This is a course which has not been offered for several semesters. The course is EDI 615: Creating Learning Environments for Students with Exceptionalities. The course meets many special education requirements and the standards of the Council on Exceptional Children, including program standards for Instructional Strategies, Instructional Planning, and Learning Environments. The course is offered on Tuesday evenings from 5:45-9:00 pm. The instructor is Dr. Moira Fallon, Department of Education and Human Development. Please register online or check with your advisor to ensure compatibility with your program of study.
