

The College at Brockport Proudly Presents

How to Take the Stress Out of Planning And Paying for College!!!

Don't pay too much to send your son or daughter to college!

Planning for college can be a stressful time for parents and students alike!

This interactive presentation offers you a practical look into planning and paying for your child's education. Parents with children in their HS freshman year through junior year of college will benefit from this workshop presented by College Assistance Plus.

Date: Thursday March 11, 2010

Time: 12:00 – 1:00 Bring your lunch

Location: Seymour Union Rm. B115

RSVP To: Matthew Vanderwert at mvanderw@brockport.edu or 395-2442

We will discuss:

- Assisting in the college selection process to insure a good student/family fit.
- Find affordable schools and reduce long-term student debt by comparing colleges both financially and academically.
- Why your child may end up saddled with loan payments (and interest) for up to thirty years after he or she graduates from college, and what you can do to help prevent this.
- How to make sure that your son or daughter will get a degree, not debt!
- Helping you find free money each and every year your children are in college!
- And much, much more!

Presenter: Steve Conner, Educational Consultant, College Assistance Plus.

*CAPlus is a fast-growing Rochester-based firm that has helped hundreds of parents and students across the nation through the college process. With an extensive and proprietary database of schools and financial information, CAPlus helps parents compare schools, find less expensive colleges, and negotiate great financial packages with their student's choice college.
