SPN 371 Brockport Career Exploration in Spanish (A). Prerequisite: Demonstrates advanced proficiency in Spanish and instructor's permission. Offers juniors and seniors an opportunity for career exploration and skill development in Spanish. 3 Cr.

SPN 372 Tutoring College Spanish (A). Prerequisite: SPN 350 or the equivalent. Provides students with the opportunity to facilitate language instruction to Delta College students in Spanish. Students will be able to design and develop language instruction materials for the college level. In addition, students facilitating the language instruction will meet on a weekly basis in a roundtable format to discuss practical and theoretical readings on second-language learning, teaching and acquisition. Course is coordinated by a faculty member of Delta College and the Department of Foreign Languages. Registration in this course needs approval of the Department of Foreign Languages chair and course instructors. 3 Cr. Every Semester.

SPN 399 Independent Study in Spanish (A). Arranged in consultation with the instructor-sponsor and in accordance with the procedures of the Office of Academic Advisement prior to registration. 1-3 Cr. Every Semester.

SPN 452 Hispanic Cultures Through Film (A). Prerequisites: SPN 353 and SPN 354. Studies Spanish and Spanish-American cultures through the analysis of films concerning the Spanish-speaking world. Gives special attention to the political domain and the ways in which it affects people's lives, to the evolving role of women in a changing society, and to the influence of indigenous cultures. Requires active class discussion and advanced skills in written and oral Spanish. 3 Cr.

SPN 453 Spanish-American Women Writers (A,C,D,W). Prerequisite: SPN 353 or SPN 354. Following a chronological perspective, this course studies the writings of some of the most important women writers of Spanish America. These works illustrate the evolution of a form of writing that seeks to oppose stereotypes imposed by a male literary tradition. The selected authors represent different literary movements and reflect on a variety of national problems. They also provide the framework for the analysis of cultural images of gender and relevant theoretical concepts related to female writing. After a brief introduction of the cultural conditions that define the emergence of female writing 17th, 18th and 19th centuries), emphasis will be given to the second half of the 20th century and to the social and political context relevant to each text. 3 Cr.

SPN 454 Hispanic Literature and Cultures in the US (A). Prerequisite: SPN 353 or SPN 354. Examines a vast collection of works - plays, novels, poems, essays, and films - by the Hispanic community with particular emphasis on those by Puerto Ricans, Cubans, and Mexican-Americans. Provides students with historical, social, and cultural contexts of the increasing Hispanic presence in the US and illustrates some of the most relevant concerns present in these works. Explores the formation of cultural identity and the degree to which gender, race, and social class influence this process. 3 Cr.

SPN 455 Hispanic Popular Culture (A). Prerequisite: SPN 353 or SPN 354. Explores the materials and the dynamics of popular culture in contemporary Hispanic societies. Forms such as telenovelas (soap operas), popular music, humor, cartoons, beliefs, and oral narratives are analyzed. Attention is given to differing definitions and interpretations of the roles and functions of popular culture in societies. 3 Cr.

SPN 456 Literature and Culture of the Caribbean (A,C). Prerequisite: SPN 353 or SPN 354. Covers some of the literary contributions made by outstanding authors of the Spanish-speaking Caribbean: Cuba, the Dominican Republic and Puerto Rico. Includes culturally unique aspects of the region. Gives special emphasis to African heritage and women in society. 3 Cr.

SPN 457 Contemporary Spanish Writers (A). Prerequisite: SPN 353 or SPN 354. Studies 20th-century Spanish literature: e.g., essays, short stories, novels, poetry and plays. Presents the historical and literary contexts in which the selected works emerge and discusses the relationship between the writers and their cultural environment. Designed to also develop analytical perspectives in literary criticism and to strengthen reading and writing skills in Spanish. 3 Cr.

SPN 458 Contemporary Spanish-American Writers (A). Prerequisite: SPN 353 or SPN 354. Studies 20th-century Spanish-American literature: e.g., essays, short stories, novels, poetry, and plays. Presents the historical and literary contexts in which the selected works emerge and discusses the relationship between the writers and their cultural environment. Also develops analytical perspectives in literary criticism and strengthens reading and writing in Spanish. 3 Cr.

Gerontology (Studies in Aging)—Interdisciplinary Minor

An interdisciplinary gerontology minor is available for students interested in the study of aging. The gerontology minor includes courses, as available, in biology, psychology, social work and sociology. In addition to a field experience in aging, an elective course that relates to aging may be chosen from a variety of disciplines with the approval of the coordinator. For information or advisement, contact the gerontology coordinator, Robert Rutzen, PhD., Department of Sociology, 110 Faculty Office Building, (585) 395-2619.
DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH SCIENCE

23 Hartwell Hall
(585) 395-2643

Chairperson and Associate Professor: Douglas Scheidt; Professors: Eileen Daniel, Thomas Golaszewski; Associate Professors: Linda F. Balog, Joseph E. Balog, Priya Banerjee, Catherine Cardina, Gary J. Metz, Celia A. Watt; Assistant Professors: Jennifer R. Boyle, Patti A. Follansbee, Justin Laird.

The Department of Health Science offers four academic tracks leading to the Bachelor of Science: (1) the professional program in health education, (2) the liberal arts program in health science*(1), (3) the alcohol and substance abuse studies program, and (4) health care administration.

The professional program in health education provides students with competencies for entry-level positions as health teachers in elementary and secondary schools and as health educators in various community agencies, work sites, and patient education settings. A specific set of prerequisite courses in biology, education, and psychology is required of students pursuing the professional program in health education. These courses are specified below under “Required Courses in Other Disciplines.”

The liberal arts program in health science provides students with an extensive understanding of the knowledge, values, problems, and issues related to health and wellness, disease, disability, and premature death in human populations. The liberal arts program does not require a specific set of prerequisite courses. However, students pursuing this program are encouraged to develop a basic knowledge in several of the many disciplines focusing on the human condition.

The alcohol/substance abuse studies program is designed to assist students in meeting the education and training requirements for the Credentialed Alcoholism and Substance Abuse Counselor (CASAC) issued by the New York State Office of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse Services (OASAS).

For those students interested in careers in health care administration, this program provides generic training (not targeted for any single position or institution) leading to any number of management-related positions in the health care field, including hospitals, nursing homes, public health institutions, insurance companies, and consulting firms. Students pursue study in a broad range of subjects emphasizing both business and health systems-related topics.

All students considering a Department of Health Science program or concentration are invited to contact the department’s undergraduate coordinator, chair or any member of the department faculty for further information and guidance. Each of the programmatic options offered by the department is presented in greater detail below.

The health science faculty has a professional responsibility to deny admission or continuation in any of its undergraduate or graduate programs to any student whose level of performance and/or personal characteristics do not adequately meet academic, professional, or ethical standards.

*The liberal arts health science track may be pursued by students seeking certification as an elementary teacher. Early Childhood or Childhood Education Certification requires an appropriate major in an academic area, which includes health science. Elementary education students should contact both their health science advisor and the Department of Education and Human Development as early as possible when planning their program.

Professional Program: Major for Health Educators

This program is for students who wish to enter a professional program for health educators in the Department of Health Science. Initial certification as a health teacher in grades K–12 in New York state is granted after completion of this program and of HLP 495 Practicum in School Health Education. Students enrolled in the professional program must achieve a grade of “C” or better (a grade of “C-” does not meet this requirement) in each required health science course (HLS and HLP) and each required course taken outside of the Department of Health Science for completion of this program. In addition, students must achieve a minimum 2.5 grade point average for all course work completed at SUNY Brockport as a prerequisite to enrollment in any 400-level professional course (HLP).

Liberal Arts Major in Health Science*
The following curriculum is for liberal arts health science majors* and students who intend to enroll in the Department of Education and Human Development's Early Childhood or Childhood Teacher Certification programs who want to major in health science. The course of study consists of three parts: a required core, one course from each of the five content areas, and two electives to be selected with advisement. Students must achieve a grade of “C” or better in each health science course. (A grade of “C-” does not meet this requirement).

Part 1.
To ensure a common foundation, all majors must take the following three core courses:

Total: 30

*For those not pursuing a professional program in health education, health administration or the alcohol and substance abuse studies tracks. Students pursuing health administration or the alcohol and substance abuse studies tracks should refer to the following sections specific to these areas:

Alcohol/Substance Abuse Studies
The Alcohol and Substance Abuse Studies Program (ASAP) may be pursued as a track in health science, as a complete set of electives to complement another major, as a complete set of courses for a non-matriculated student, or selectively as independent electives. The ASAP courses partially fulfill requirements for the New York State Office of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse Services (OASAS) Credential Alcoholism and Substance Abuse Counselor examination. Current CASAC holders may elect to take some or all of these courses to fulfill the continuing education requirements of the credential. Students must achieve a grade of “C” or better in each health science course. (A grade of “C-” does not meet this requirement).
Students majoring in this program are required to complete the following core courses:

Prerequisites: All other ASAP courses — a minimum of 2.5 GPA and coordinator's permission.

1HLS 418 or HLS 409 are prerequisites or corequisites for all ASAP courses.

2HLS 423 and HLS 435 are prerequisites for HLS 422.

3PHS 110 or PSH 112 is a prerequisite for HLS 445.

Total: 30–36

Health Care Administration

In keeping with the needs of the expected job positions, education is geared to both business and health science-related skills. All courses in this 30-credit program are three credits and most are offered at SUNY Brockport MetroCenter in downtown Rochester, either Saturdays or evenings. (Courses marked with an asterisk below are only offered at the MetroCenter.) Courses designated with “F” or “S” are fall or spring only. Students must achieve a grade of “C” or better in each health science and required business and accounting course. (A grade of “C–” does not meet this requirement).

Please note: HLS 301 and 306 are not required for this program as they are for other programs in health science in order for students to focus more attention on administrative issues and keep within the 30-credit framework. Students are reminded that they need to complete a contemporary issues course as part of the College General Education requirements and HLS 306 is recommended for this purpose.

The study of history lies at the heart of the liberal arts tradition, and has recently become an essential part of many pre-professional programs. At SUNY Brockport, a student may study history as part of the General Education requirements, may encounter it as a requirement for another major, or may major in it to prepare for careers in public service, education, advertising, writing, or most positions requiring intellectual flexibility, breadth of perspective and an inquiring mind. History majors may go on to graduate school, either in history itself or in professional areas such as law or business. The Department of History at SUNY Brockport offers a variety of courses designed to serve any of these ends.

I. History Major

The history major consists of 36 credits of history courses, 18 of which must be 300/400-level courses taken at SUNY Brockport. Only courses in which a grade of "C" or higher is received are accepted as part of these requirements.

Students entering the College as transfers may be exempted from HST 101 and 102 if they have completed six credits in Western Civilization courses at another institution. All other requirements are the same.

Note: The history major requires two 400-level courses, one of which must be "research intensive."

History Minor

The minor requires 18 history credits, at least nine of which must be upper-division. Only courses in which students earn a grade of "C" or higher satisfy these requirements. At least half of the credits must have been completed at SUNY Brockport.

Phi Alpha Theta

The Department of History is proud to sponsor a chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, the international history honor society. Juniors and seniors who achieve academic excellence are inducted into the chapter each spring.

History Courses

AMS 327 Survey of American History (A,V). Not open to students who have completed HST 211 or 212 or their equivalents. Will not count toward the major in history. Focuses on a narrative of American history through key events, turning points, and controversies. Lectures examine exploration, early colonization, the American Revolution, the Civil War, industrialization, immigration, World War II, and the cultural/social revolution of the Vietnam Era. 3 Cr.

GEP 170 Modern World Civilizations (A,G,O). Not open to students who have completed HST 101 or 102. Will not count toward the major in history. Presents an overview of modern world civilizations including and comparing both Western civilization and non-Western civilization. Focuses on key events, turning points, and controversies. Lectures examine creation of empires, religions, global economic shifts, creation of literature and art, gender, race, interaction of cultures and peoples, warfare and conquest, and globalization. 3 Cr.

HST 101 Ancient World (A,G,O). Cross-listed as HON 218. Conveys a global and comparative perspective on major themes in human history in the pre-1500 era and situates the historical experience of the West within that framework. Explores classical traditions of the several world civilizations, the spread of world religions, construction of ancient empires and societies, and the multiple encounters among them. 3 Cr. Every Semester.

HST 102 Modern World (A,G,O). Cross-listed as HON 223. Conveys a global and comparative perspective on major themes in human history since roughly 1500 and situates the historical experience of the West within that framework. Focuses on the modern transformation of the West, its rise to global domination and the various challenges to that domination which have arisen over the past several centuries. 3 Cr. Every Semester.

HST 113 Introduction to Afro-American History (A,D). Cross-listed as AAS 113. Examines the historical experience and conditions of persons of African descent within the American historical milieu. 3 Cr. Every Semester.

HST 211 Early America (A,V). Provides a basic narrative survey of American political, economic, social and cultural history with an emphasis on early America. Includes topics such as unity and diversity in American society, the development of common institutions and how they have affected different groups, and America's relationship to the rest of the world. 3 Cr. Every Semester.

HST 212 Modern America (A,V). Cross-listed as HON 212. Provides a basic narrative survey of American political, economic, social and cultural history with an emphasis on modern America. Includes topics such as unity and diversity in American society, the development of common institutions and how they have affected different groups, and America's relationship to the rest of the world. 3 Cr. Every Semester.

HST 220 The American Experience (A,V)-Honors. Cross-listed as HON 220. Provides a narrative survey of American political, economic, social and cultural history. Honors course with selected topics defined by each instructor. Includes topics such as citizenship and democracy, unity and diversity in American society, gender, race and power in American politics, and US foreign policy. 3 Cr.

HST 302 History of Science and Technology in America (A,I). Examines the changing relationships among science, technology and American society as it developed from rural colony into modern, urban and industrial power. Assesses how government and private institutions influenced scientific and technological development and how that development affected the ways Americans worked, consumed, recreated, communicated, traveled and made war. 3 Cr.

HST 304 Sport in World History (A). Introduces students to the ways in which a study of sport can help illuminate their understanding of major issues in history. Through the lens of sport they will look at issues such as nationalism, classism, racism and sexism as they have occurred around the world and across time. Reinforces what students have learned earlier in terms of how to read a monograph, how to develop a bibliography, and how to locate and abstract a scholarly article. 3 Cr.

HST 310 American Indian History (A,D). Provides an overview of the history of North America's native people from the pre-Columbian period to present day. Addresses the diversity and commonalities of Indian culture and experience, the consequences of Indian-European contact, the nature of Indian-European relations and the evolution of Indian identity. 3 Cr.

HST 313 Slavery in the Antebellum South (A,D). Cross-listed as AAS 313. Provides a study of some of the dynamics of slavery in the South between 1800 and 1860. Includes firsthand accounts of observers and the political, economic and racial implications of this system. Compares the US plantation slavery to other slave systems in the Americas. Encourages students to borrow from the disciplines of anthropology, sociology, literature, and economics, as well as from political and intellectual history. 3 Cr.

HST 324 Gender, Power and Politics in America (A,W). Explores American politics from the 18th Century until today, emphasizing central tendencies and long-term patterns in the distribution and exercise of power in America with special attention to gender, interests, and ideologies. 3 Cr.

HST 327 American Military Experience Since 1900 (A). Following a chronological format, studies the relationship of military policy to foreign policy, the issue of war and peace, the conduct of diplomacy and military operations, the impact of technology on war and politics, organizational development of the armed forces, and the constitutional structure of civil-military relationships. 3 Cr. Spring.
