Dear Professor Miller:

The History Department, at its meeting of December 19, voted a slight change in its major requirements. Since it does not involve a change in the number of required hours, it does not seem to me to require Senate approval, but I will leave that to you.

We voted to delete HST 491, The Senior Seminar, as a requirement, and instead are substituting HST 390, The Junior Seminar. The reason for this is simply that too many of our graduating seniors were lacking the necessary research skills, and we believe that by introducing students to them in the middle, rather than at the end of their curriculum, we will serve them better.

If I do not hear from you or the Committee, I will assume there is no problem with this change. On the other hand, I'd be happy to discuss it if more information is needed.

Sincerely yours,

Lynn H. Parsons, Chairman
History Department
