NOTES: Res # 18
MSEd in Bilingual Education (Spanish) – remove EDI 600

Rationale
Brockport’s MSEd in Bilingual Education (Spanish) currently includes 9 core EDI courses (27 credits), and 2 SPN courses (6 credits), for a total of 33 credit hours. One course historically required by all programs was EDI 600: Understanding Educational Research. The intent of the (general) course was to prepare students for writing a thesis proposal by reviewing research in an area of interest. However, faculty throughout the Department found that a general, all-fields research course did not meet the needs of students in different programs (such as literacy, biology, chemistry, English, and so on).

Over the past several years, faculty have tailored much of the relevant curriculum covered by EDI 600 into content-specific coursework (e.g. EDI 645: Research in Literacy Education [literacy], or EDI 623 Reading Research in Adolescence Science [Adolescence Biology]). The Bilingual Education program is the last remaining program requiring completion of EDI 600. The course overlaps significantly with the more-targeted content included in EDI 661: Research in Linguistics and Second Language Acquisition, and serves only to extend time-to-degree and increase degree costs for students.

Hence, we propose to remove EDI 600: Understanding Educational Research as a program requirement for students in the MSEd in Bilingual Education (Spanish).

Comment on Mission
The MSEd in Bilingual Education (Spanish) continues to align well with the College at Brockport’s mission by delivering graduate-level professional education that will provide students with high quality instruction in a field that is intrinsically linked to civic engagement – teaching in New York State (and other) public schools. Additionally, this revised program will continue to prepare Brockport graduates for high-demand employment in a diverse range of local, state, and national schools.

We anticipate no impact on the mission of the College at Brockport, or that of the Department of Education & Human Development as a result of this proposal.

Comment on Market
The MSEd in Bilingual Education (Spanish) attracts a small, but growing (and critically important) role for the overall programming of the Department of Education & Human Development. Demand for program graduates is high; as New York State Deputy Commissioner John D’Agati summarized (in a Memo to the Field dated 12/8/2014):

Over the past 10 years, New York State English Language Learner (ELL) student enrollment has increased by 20 percent. This trend is not unique to New York; according to the U.S. Department of Education, ELL student enrollment has increased by 18 percent nationally. Currently in New York State, nearly a quarter of a million ELLs make up almost 10 percent of the total public school student population, with even more ELLs enrolled in our private schools. Students in New York State speak over 200 languages, and nearly 45 percent of ELLs were born outside of the United States.
NYSED’s data are confirmed by a recent (October, 2014: http://cepr.harvard.edu/cepr-resources/files/news-events/sdp-diagnostic-he-nysed.pdf) study by the Harvard Center for Education Policy found sustained demand across the state for teachers certified in English for Speakers of Other Languages (hires of teachers for ESOL jobs ranked #1 in NYS, at 66% of those certified hired within 2 years –compared, e.g., with hires of just 26% of those certified in elementary & early childhood). The New York State Department of Education has sought to support teachers and teacher-preparation institutions in their efforts to prepare for, and teach, a growing population of English Language Learners. In April 2014, the Department released an 8-point Blueprint for English Language Learner Success, the first point of which emphasizes that ‘All teachers are teachers of English Language Learners, and need to plan accordingly.’

Part of New York State’s efforts to increase the supply of qualified ESOL-certified teachers has been via ongoing grant funding for a Clinically-Rich Intensive Teacher Institute in Bilingual Education and English as a Second Language (CR-ITI-BE). The Department has sought to expand such programs through SUNY campuses like Brockport. We are optimistic that there will remain ongoing state support in the near and long-term for TESOL programs such as that proposed here.

We anticipate, if anything, a slight positive market impact from the proposed credit reduction, as reducing overall program credits from 33 to 30 may speed time-to-degree for some students, and will reduce program costs for all students by approximately $1,300 ($432 per credit, graduate in-state tuition rate) without sacrificing program quality.

Comment on Quality

This proposal would remove one course from the MSEd in Bilingual Education program – EDI 600: Understanding Educational Research. This can be done without sacrificing program quality or standards, as EHD has in recent years moved away from the (general) research course requirement, and towards research coursework that focuses more explicitly on the disciplines. For the MSEd in Bilingual Education program, the research course is EDI 661: Research in Linguistics and Second Language Acquisition. EDI 600 has become unnecessary for students in the program to examine research in their field, develop sound research questions, and develop sound thesis/capstone proposals. Hence, we feel confident that there will be no impact on program quality should this proposal be approved.

RE: Support for Online MSEd and Certification Only Programs in TESOL

Date: February 23, 2015

I write to offer my full support for adjusting the credits for the Bilingual MSEd from 33 to 30 credit hours. The reduction in credit hours is achieved by removing the requirement for EDI 600 Understanding Educational Research. This proposal:

- Adjusts credit requirements for the Bilingual MSEd to 30 credits, which is the SUNY/SED requirement for a masters degree;
- Has the potential to shorten students’ time to degree; and
- Does not impact program quality. The student learning objectives for EDI 600 have been incorporated in EDI 661 Research in Linguistics and Second Language Acquisition and EDI 722 Seminar in Bilingual/TESOL Education.

My colleagues and I enthusiastically support this proposal.
Dear Members of the Committee:

I fully support the MSED in TESOL proposed by Department of Education and Human Development. The inclusion of 12 credits of a foreign language as a requirement for admission underscores the importance of the study of foreign language in the preparation of our future TESOL teachers. This requirement could also prove beneficial to our department since MSED in TESOL candidates could take our beginning and intermediate level courses in Arabic, Chinese, French and Spanish before applying to their graduate degree.

I have also reviewed the proposed change to the MSED in Bilingual Education and support the reduction in credits required for completion of the program from 33 credits to 30.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions about this proposal.

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this letter in support of the proposed revision to the MSEd in Bilingual Education (Spanish) program within the Department of Education & Human Development. The Department has my support for this program which includes the following:

- A streamlined, yet rigorous 30 credit program
- Content-specific research focus that meets the needs of students in the Bilingual Education (Spanish) program.

This proposed program requires no additional resources and has my full support.

Sincerely,

I am happy to include this brief letter of support for the proposed change in the MSEd in Bilingual Education program.

This proposed change maintains the program’s academic rigor and alignment with accreditation and certification standards, while also delivering an efficient 30 credit curriculum that can attract qualified candidates for this special teacher training program.

Thank you for your consideration.
